

I wonder whether anyone has done a study into how many years a new discovery languishes in the realms of rejection, "nonsense", "charlatanry" and ridicule before it bursts its bonds to be heralded as "The most Significant Breakthrough of the Century". If you dig a little, you will find that almost all of the technological devices which are an indispensable part of our lives started off just so.....

Television, radio, aeroplanes, jet engines, trains, cars, wrist watches, home computers, antibiotics, navigation devices, electric cookers, ball point pens, the list just goes on and on and on. If you would like to know what is "bubbling under" at the moment, get yourself a copy of the new edition of "The Field" by Lynn McTaggart.

We, along with many others, have been saying for years that the problem with cell (mobile) and cordless 'phones is NOT the heating of the brain but the disruption of the normal cell function due to the interference with the inter-cellular and intra-cellular communication caused by the wild scalar radiations emitted by such devices.

The human body's internal communication systems, the means by which it coordinates all activity and prevents disease expressing itself are propagated via scalar waves. The scalar waves are a part of the electro-magnetic spectrum defined by James Clerk Maxwell in 1861 which has been, for all intents and purposes, ignored for the last century and more. From the initial 20 equations describing the electro-magnetic fields, a mere eight are taught in engineering schools, the others being dismissed as "too complex to be of use" (see opening paragraph). Enter "Maxwell's equations" into www.wikipedia.org for more details.

Almost all electrical and electronic devices produce, as an unintentional side-effect of their construction, large volumes of wild scalar radiation; many in the same frequency as your body's internal communication systems.

The scientists who have published the new research have found definitive evidence of very significant changes to human protein structures after just one hour of exposure to a modern cell 'phone.

The most important factor determining the volume of wild scalar radiation emitted (and their lethal effects) is the coherent quality of the electricity actually powering the device. This is true of all electrical and electronic devices, not just cell 'phones. We say that an electrical flow (or, indeed, any energy flow) is coherent when all, or most, of the electrons are flowing in the same direction upon parallel paths, thus engendering both minimal resistance and minimal electron collision which produces the damaging wild radiations. This is, however, not the state of the electricity used in your home and your battery powered devices. To the contrary, this is virtually exclusively electricity produced in a very crude and wasteful manner which causes it to be extremely chaotic. Up to 28% of the electricity which you purchase is wasted in wild, health damaging radiations. This energy source then forces the device which it is entering to eject the chaotic part of the electricity (which the device cannot use) in the form of wild scalar radiations.

Now, there are a great many products on the market which are aimed at countering the wild radiations though not, so far as I'm aware, in the scalar area. None, however, seeks to deal with the problems itself but merely claim to eliminate some of the effects. Is it not better to remove the cause of the problem so that these wild radiations are no longer produced? This is our opinion. There is also an interesting and most useful side-effect of doing so:

If the scalar waves which impinge upon you, no matter their source, are chaotic, then they are quite likely to cause problems for you by interfering with or disrupting your natural systems. If, however, the scalar waves are coherent then they will tend to pass this coherence onto your natural systems and, thereby, to improve their efficiency, i.e., it's not about neutralising the effects of electro-smog but about turning it around so that it actually supports your health. There is no way that we can run our world without electricity and electronic devices so the necessary action is to make them life enhancing instead of their present status.

This surmise was, in fact, confirmed in a study carried out by The Institute for Biosensitivity and Bioenergetic Environmental Research in Graz, Austria in March 2007. They found that the majority of test subjects actually showed a definite improvement in their general health condition when using a cell 'phone equipped with a Harmony Phone Chip.

There are many ways of rendering the electricity you use coherent and vitalising (or, at least, harmless). Fixing a Harmony Evolution upon the main power line into your home will make your home electricity coherent.

Fixing mini-chips onto the battery of your cell or mobile 'phone as close as possible to the + mark will give coherent electricity into your 'phone.

Wearing a Harmony Evolution upon your thymus gland will neutralise the greater part of the wild radiation with which you daily come into contact.

See <http://www.harmonyunited.com/web/en/biological/general.html> for details. This will also have the added benefit of making not only your body's own internal communication and control systems more effective but also revitalising your body water thus making your blood more effective both in transporting nutrients to all your cells as well as in the removal of metabolic wastes. For more details of this see: <http://www.harmonyhealthchip.com>

The Harmony Super Charger will not only eliminate all the electro smog produced by your car as well as that with which you're bombarded on the freeway, it will also make all your car's systems function much better giving not only health and safety benefits but also enormous cash benefits as well. See here for more detail;

<http://www.harmonyautomotive.com>

The Home and Office Harmonizer is the ultimate device for ordering all the energy flows within your home bringing not only health benefits but also letting relationships etc. function properly.
<http://www.harmonyunited.com/web/en/fengshui.html>

Blessed be

Karma Singh
Harmony United Ltd.
London
20th March 2008
<mailto:karma@harmonyunited.com>
N. America 415-315-9497
UK 0844-5553191 (only functions UK internal)
Skype: karmaharmony