The Suicide Kitchen – a short history of the microwave oven.

In Hitler's Germany of 1941 the military authorities commissioned a university research project with the aim of providing the troops on the Russian front with hot meals whilst avoiding the logistical problem of delivering fuel oil and coal to the field ovens.

Out of this research, the microwave oven was born.

Upon testing it with troops, however, the men rapidly became ill and the project was shelved.

After the war both the Russian and American military took possession of this technology and went their disparate ways with it.

Precisely what the Russians did with it is not generally known but, from 1953 onwards the manufacture and use of microwave ovens was permanently banned throughout the Russian Empire. This situation still obtains today.

The only exception to this law was, of course, the KGB who effectively used microwaves throughout the Cold War period to make the personnel in western embassies ill!

The American military attempted to make a death ray weapon but were unable to sufficiently focus the intensity of the radiations to kill immediately, only slowly.

In the 1960s the "Top Secret" classification in the U.S.A. was removed and the technology licensed to electrical goods manufacturers.

The technology is no safer today than it has ever been. The essential nature of the technology renders it impossible to use it safely. It is not just the inner side of the ovens which spray deadly radiations; a domestic microwave oven will emit lethal radiations within a radius of 500 yards!!!!!!! Not just when in use but as soon as you connect it to the electrical power.

Even more important, perhaps, is what happens to "foodstuffs" which have been microwaved?

12 Seconds in a microwave oven is sufficient to destroy all traces of nutritional value. This is how:

The microwaves excite the water molecules in everything within range, i.e. 500 yards. (In the oven itself, the intensity is, of course, the highest.) This causes the water to throw off electrons in an extremely chaotic manner. These electrons then collide with the molecules of all other substances with which they come into contact causing them to oscillate wildly, giving off heat in the process. If you're acquainted with nuclear power generation processes, this may look familiar to you. This is, in fact, precisely why everything which has been through a microwave oven is slightly radioactive. Although these "foodstuffs" are then carcinogenic, this is not the biggest problem. The process of spraying wild electrons through foodstuffs so alters their biophysical nature that the human body can no longer identify them as foodstuffs nor metabolise them!

There is a very famous experiment which was carried out some years ago with domestic cats. All repeats with all other mammals have brought exactly the same results:

24 cats were kept in controlled conditions whereby they had no access to food or drink other than that given by the experimenters. The cats were offered a "gourmet" menu - everything and anything they wanted to eat or drink. There was simply one rule; everything, after being selected by the cat, was first put through a microwave oven for 12 seconds before being consumed. Without exception, all the animals died within 14 days.

Although the animals gained dramatically in weight, autopsies showed that they had died of starvation! That which the animals had eaten was not being metabolised, simply stored.

Looking around oneself, especially in N. America, one sees great numbers of people evidencing this same syndrome! Not only are they storing vast quantities of substances rendered useless junk by microwaves but also, because their bodies are so undernourished, they are unable to adequately discharge toxins generated by the normal metabolic processes and suffer from a great many other maladies.

Remember, you don't have to eat anything from a microwave oven to get ill this way; you just have to be closer than 500 yards to one!

It is highly probable, although not yet experimentally examined, that microwave ovens have played a significant rôle in the growing numbers of birth defects.

There is no way of making microwave ovens safe. Even if one were to encase each oven in the six inches of lead necessary to stop the external radiations, that which has been in a microwave oven would still be nutritionally zero. Nor yet is it possible to "correct" the microwaving. Once a substance has been microwaved its' nutritional structure has been destroyed and there is no power on Earth which can re-create it.

There are only two things that you can do:

- 1) Get rid of your microwave and persuade all your neighbours within a radius of 500 yards to do the same.
- 2) Wear a Harmony Chip to neutralise the effects of microwave radiations upon your body. (see chapter 6, page 14.)

The person you have called is temporarily dead.

If you've concerned yourself with the problem of mobile or cell 'phones and the human brain you may be aware that there are internationally agreed safety standards to which all 'phones have to (voluntarily) comply in order to minimize (not eliminate, just minimize) cooking your brain with microwave radiations.

You are being lied to in several ways:

- 1) These "international standards" are in no way safe! These are exactly the radiations used in hospitals to attack and kill cancer cells. Medicine knows well the extremely damaging side-effects of radiotherapy and would never, under any circumstances, entertain the notion of using them with the frequency of the mobile 'phone.
- 2) Additionally, these "international standards" are notional values for the adult brain. Juvenile brains are 3 times as susceptible to these radiations and babies, 10 times.
- 3) Mobile 'phones are forbidden in maternity wards because they cause breathing difficulties for the newborn. This is supposed to be safe for you????
- 4) Recent research financed by the European Union shows that these "international standards" are completely unsafe and lead to many dis-eases.
- 5) It is not the microwave radiations which are the real problem! It is the scalar waves. These are not much talked about and the mobile 'phone companies would prefer to keep it that way. These are the ones which cause severe illness and death. For more details about these please see <http://www.us.hu.es.getinharmony.com>

I am not saying here that the mobile 'phone companies are peopled by rapacious villains. It is very much more the case that the technology was brought onto the market long before it had been properly safety tested. By the time it was discovered just how deadly it could be, there was no way back and the companies resorted to lying about the problem. Now, there is a solution and the technology could be made not only safe but also health enhancing. One large provider was offered, in February 2005, the opportunity to be the first with this technology with all the advantages this would bring but, after careful consideration, turned it down because, "it might get into the press and then everyone would know that we'd been lying."

To play the problem down when there is no solution is, at least, understandable. To persist in killing people after a solution is there is criminal.

This attitude has striking similarities to the genetically modified crops lobby: It is often stated that "there is no scientific evidence of harm to human beings". There is none, simply because there has never been any study carried out. The total lack of evidence is quoted as "proof" that their commercial point of view is in accord with public safety. Available evidence implies very strongly the contrary.

These two activities, mobile or cell 'phones and GM crops are the most dangerous things that mankind has done to date. They could, together, exterminate mankind within the next few decades.

There is now a solution to the mobile 'phone problem: It needs to be used. Only public pressure is likely to cause this to happen!

There is not and never can be a solution to the GM problem which is why the problem is never publicly stated. It is simply this: Human beings have developed over a period of some millions of years with the ability to digest and to metabolise a fairly broad spectrum of substances as foodstuffs. The substances each have a specific genetic structure to which the human body reacts in order to use it.

The problem is that the mixing of genes from one species with those from another can easily produce a combination which the human body cannot recognise, digest or metabolise. It may look like food but eating it would produce death by starvation, just as with microwaved "foodstuffs".

Now, you may say that this is an interesting theory but it could never actually happen. The truth is:

It already has!!

Genetically modified soya exterminated the monarch butterfly because the nectar upon which it fed could no longer be metabolised. This could easily happen to humans and probably will unless you take action to stop it.

Is there no Escape?

Well, for all practical purposes, no!

A few could go and live deep in forests where the trees all absorb the killing radiations and will protect you until they die off but, for the majority of us something else will have to be done.

You see, although I've mentioned two intense sources of electro smog, these are merely the strongest radiation and by no means the greatest in quantity.

The decision to use Edison rather than Tesla technology for power generation around the turn of the last but one century (19th to 20th) lead inexorably to our present situation. Edison technology is very crude and wasteful but is easy to build. Tesla technology requires very precise machining and micro controls which, at that time, were very difficult to achieve. Nowadays, this is no problem for us and many are, in fact, beginning to build Tesla devices. If we can survive the interim, in 50 years or so Edison technology may well be a thing of the past.

One of the ways in which Edison technology is very wasteful is in that up to 28% of all electricity generated gets thrown away in useless wild radiations. This is electro smog! It's not a new problem. Only the enormous rise in quantity over the last 25 years has brought it to the fore of human consciousness.

At home, not only will all your electrical devices radiate electro smog, even the cables in the walls do so! Fifty years ago, this was not much of a problem as both home and workplace had few cables and electrical devices. Today, something very different obtains:

If you work, especially in an office, in a building either less than 30 years old or which has been refurbished within that time then you are almost certainly being constantly bombarded with strong electro smog. Typical symptoms are:

- Chronic tiredness
- Pressure or even pain on the head
- A head full of "cotton wool"
- Weak knees

- Back pain
- Cold "drafts" where no air movement takes place
- Inability to think clearly
- Memory lapses
- Cold feet
- Diffuse chronic pain in the lower abdomen
- Being sent to the psychiatrist because of your "psychosomatic" illness.

How many of these are familiar to you?

The modern home is seldom better. As a child I remember that most rooms had only one or two electrical sockets and some, none at all. Nowadays, even a very small room will have at least four and I have seen lounges in quite normal homes with 20 places to plug electrical devices in!

The amount of electrical devices in the home itself has also dramatically risen (why else so many wall sockets). The freezer, the home computer, the electrical toothbrush, the food mixer, the answer phone, the video, the DVD, etc., etc.. All these things did not exist when I was a child. I am sitting now in my office at home and have no less than eleven electrical devices plugged in and working!

The simple fact is that no-one wants to go back to 1950s life style nor could any commercial operation afford to go back to paper and manual accounting procedures instead of computers. Steam locomotion is not an option for the railways. Dismantling the World's entire telephone networks would cause total chaos, probably several million deaths and a war or two. We have to find a different way of solving the problem or face extinction as a species (as well as exterminating many other life forms as well) within the next 50 years.

The first viable solution is already available.

What is Electro Smog Really?

Or, more to the point, how exactly does it make you ill and/or kill you (and trees and flowers and pussy cats and etc., et. al.)?

You may well remember that we had previously mentioned scalar waves. It's time to look at them in more detail.

Scalar waves are everywhere throughout the universe. They can be neither created nor destroyed, only blocked, distorted or superimposed upon each other. Alternatively, they can be focused, ordered and harmonised. Scalar waves are the basic information carriers which make ordered life possible. The cells of the human body for example communicate through scalar waves - anything else would be too slow and lead to the proliferation of wild cells. This should, of course, give you the first clue as to why so many people develop cancer close to intense electro smog.

It has been known for more than a century that disorganised scalar waves will make your knees weak, give you headaches, delete your memory, etc., etc. (see the list on pages 9 & 10). It is unfortunate that very little research has been done into this.

Disorderly generation of electric power and devices which use it disorderly all disorganise the scalar waves and transmit disruptive scalar waves throughout the vicinity. Where two or more such devices are in close proximity (e.g. cell phone masts and the electric wiring in your home/office) they will each greatly intensify the disruptive effects which the other has created and quite easily disrupt the normal, healthy functioning of your body and mind.

That, in a nutshell, is it. Once the disruptive scalar waves have been generated there's nothing more that one can do. There is no way of stopping them - they will go through all materials known to man.

To solve the problem it is, therefore, necessary to prevent their generation. What is required is some means of so ordering the electrical flows themselves so that the wild, disruptive scalar waves are no longer there. To do this, however, one needs to order the scalar waves themselves: The only way to not have disruptive scalar waves is by having life affirming ones. The scalar waves are there anyway; it's simply a question of what we make them do.

They could ENHANCE the health of all creatures in their vicinity.

This is not only theoretically so, it has also been shown, by (without permission) attaching a simple ordering device to a cell phone mast, to be both true and practical.

Cell phone masts could, very cheaply, be made to transmit health instead of destruction. It is simply a matter of public awareness and pressure to make it happen.

In the meantime you can protect both yourself and your home by ordering the scalar waves in your vicinity.

In the next pages we will see how!

So Why is the Government Not Doing Anything?

It is! It's both allowing the "manufacturers" of electro smog to lie to you and to kill you and, at the same time, lies to you itself about the extremely deleterious effects of electro smog!

So far I know, only in Sweden have the health authorities been allowed to publicly recognise that electro smog is a major health hazard. All other governments are actively suppressing the truth.

So, why? What do governments get from lying to you about it?

The problem is exactly the same one as for the "manufacturers": There was no workable solution and they still haven't grasped that there now is.

Admitting, officially, that the problem exists puts an onus upon the government to solve it. Simultaneously, claims on health insurance and the like would have to be admitted. As no-one in conventional science can offer any usable solution, the government would be seen as failing in it's duty and would, maybe, not be re-elected. Additionally, admitting, publicly, that the problem is real would leave them very little choice other than to ban the erection of mobile 'phone transmitter masts.

It's a nobody can win situation so the best way out is to lie about the existence of the problem.

Governments simply need to be awakened to the fact that there now is a solution whereby everyone can win.

Here it is:-

The Moment you've all Been Waiting for.

Not just you, in fact almost everyone on the planet.

You see, there is a solution. It's not been around for very long, nor has the science upon which it is based been.

The Harmony Chip (for so this device is called) stems out of the quantum and oscillation technologies developed over the last 35 years.

The first prototype was made in 1989. It is still 100% effective today!

Much refinement and further development has been done and, since September 2003, the Harmony Chip has been generally available.

A great many scientists and engineers are working to produce commercially viable devices from these new technologies. The Harmony Chip is simply the first such.

As with all really new products, the Harmony Chip first moved in quite small circles but has now become available virtually World-wide.

This small, handy device is a major breakthrough in creating and protecting your quality of life now and for years to come.

The beauty of it is that, because it functions in a completely different way to everything that mankind has ever invented to date, there are not and can never be any side-effects. The very, very worst that could happen to you with a Harmony Chip is;

Absolutely Nothing!

Although, actually, you would have to be dead for this to happen. As long as you are alive, removing perturbing influences from your body and your brains will bring you benefits. Sometimes so dramatically that you will weep for joy and sometimes so gentle that your friends will notice it before you do.

Everything is possible for such is your birthright. You have no real limitations and removing that which hinders you being who you really are allows you to experience being who you want to be.

So, how?

There are two ways: Best is both.

Attaching a Harmony Chip to the main power cable to your home will not only cause all the electricity used in your home to be ordered and, therefore, life affirming but will also create an ordered field effect around your home which will tend to repulse electro smog coming from outside.

On the left here you see a photograph of a measurement of the electro-magnetic radiation from a fuse box in an office block.

On the right you see exactly the same thing a few seconds later but with the addition of a Harmony Chip. Please note two things:

- A) Almost two thirds of the electro smog has immediately disappeared.

- B) The Harmony Chip is not correctly placed. For the purposes of the photograph the Harmony Chip was simply brought into contact with the fuse box. In this position, the effect is quite minimal. The correct position would be upon the main power cable itself so that the entire surface of the Harmony Chip could be brought into action instead of just one corner as shown in the photo. DESPITE LESS THAN 5% OF THE HARMONY CHIP BEING IN ACTION, TWO THIRDS OF THE ELECTRO SMOG HAS GONE!!!!

The second way to protect yourself is to wear a Harmony Chip upon your thymus gland. This will neutralise at least 80% of the destructive energy, including electro smog, with which you are daily bombarded.
