In the Beginning there was an Engineer...

There are many possible starting points for the Harmony Chip story, dependent upon your time scale and frame of reference. For most practical purposes, however, it begins in 1983 with a young engineering student in Wiesbaden, Germany named Joachim Manfred Wagner.

Two things dominated his life at that time:

The one was an overwhelming inner compulsion to do something to dramatically change the quality of life upon this planet or to die in the attempt.

The other was an obsession with the iniquities of the internal combustion engine.

This latter is not quite so obvious if you're not familiar with the industry but the fact is that there has been no real improvement in automobile technology for more than a century! There's been a lot of tinkering and fiddling about but the technology, itself, is exactly the same as in the Model T Ford!

Not having the mega-million budget of a car manufacturer, Joachim focused his attention into one particular area – the ignition. You see, the spark in the engine happens mostly too soon, too late, too much or too little and, just occasionally, exactly right. Unless you've got a Harmony Chip in your car it still does this, by the way.

A further problem which concerned him was that, with "conventional" techniques, it was possible to either improve performance or exhaust emissions or fuel consumption by making the other two worse. Improving all three simultaneously is what he set out to do.

His researches lead him very quickly to the study of quantum mechanics as it was clear that, once the impulse to start the ignition was on it's way, it is not possible to modify it. Only at the source could something be done. Later than this, the amount of energy required to alter the spark impulse would be, at least, equal to the energy already underway, i.e. one could stop the spark but not change it's qualities in any meaningful way.

The origin of the spark is an impulse in the electron stream. This is the level at which free energy begins to form into matter (a process which is continuously happening everywhere.) This is called, in science, "The Quantum Level". If one can order the electron stream by bringing the natural harmonising attribute from the quantum level through the materialisation barrier and into the matter being formed then the energy flows at the material level will also be ordered and in harmony each with the other. The effect of doing this is to "create" a sort of quasi-intelligence whereby the disparate energy flows "communicate" with each other and bring the system in which they are participating to it's optimal function.

Joachim determined to do exactly this! It became almost immediately clear that some method of affecting the sub-microscopic, sub-atomic level must be invented.

Six years later, in 1989 the first successful prototype was created. It is still functioning 100% today!

Build a Better Mouse Trap.....

It has long been an axiom that if you build a better mousetrap, the World will beat a path to your door.

In the real World, however, there are two classes of people:
Those who don't want your invention and,
Those who don't know about it.

Marketing, today, requires almost as much specialised knowledge as engineering. Who is your target market? What, exactly, do they want, what will they pay for it, how do I get it to them, how, where and when can I best approach them, when will they buy and when not and why? All these and many other questions need to be answered.

Unfortunately, engineering colleges do not teach this, which is why so many wonderful inventions are either bought up end up hidden in drawers or never get into production.

Joachim first approached his "obvious" (to an engineer) market of the major automobile manufacturers. As his invention not only made obsolete much of their enormous investment in electronic ignition controls but also represented a major technological shift, his invention was not taken up. That the Harmony Chip will also usually extend the working life of an automobile engine by up to 25% further reduced the endearment of the automobile manufacturers towards him.

Over the following years, Joachim lived a (mostly) hand to mouth existence selling a few of his chips each month to private individuals whilst at the same time attempting to service the large debt he had incurred through the development costs.

He had also managed to give his product a name which was instantly forgettable. (Even though I've been intimately involved with the Harmony Chip for 4 years, I still cannot remember the original name.)

In this time it also became clear that his invention would not only correct the ignition but also the road holding, suspension and braking. Order is order and is not peculiar to any particular function.

And then one year something totally unexpected and unforeseen happened. Someone, instead of attaching his chip to his car, taped it to his body to see what would happen. Within days, a chronic illness just simply disappeared!

Lo, What Light.....

To Joachim, as an engineer, this effect was both astonishing and barely understandable.

How could a purely technical device improve the health of a human being? What possible connection did the one have with the other? Who could answer this question?

Initially no-one and for some years this attribute was used by a few doctors and some friends.

Over time a few rules seemed to show themselves. With the help of some tips gleaned from traditional Chinese medicine a modus operandi was developed.

Applying a chip to what the Chinese call the Ming-Meng point (the vertebra directly behind the naval) was found to not only greatly reduce the confusing effects of large quantities of alcohol, it also eliminated the hangover on the following day!

More usefully, it was shown that the chip could remove infertility and impotence.

And so, little by little, more was learned of the attributes of this amazing technology.

Meanwhile, Back at the.....

A little more than half a century ago, close to the South Western corner of the Yorkshire Moors in England, Dr. Gowers Senior orchestrated, in a barely heated room in the servants quarters of a moderately large house, one of many hundreds of births which have taken place during a long and busy medical career.

The effects of this medical attention, amongst other, more natal, factors was to give direction to a life rich in experiences in which it can be truly said that the only missing element was boredom.

Despite many years of formal education, a successful businessman emerged, adept at overcoming problems which others claimed to be insoluble. Success lead to success, to adding letters after his name whilst pursuing assiduously his principal interest of discovering the highways and byways of human consciousness.

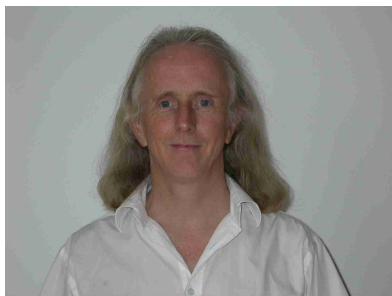

Then, in 1986, in one of the abrupt changes which hallmarked his life, all the trappings and trims of commercial success were taken away and his hobby became, of necessity, his profession.

The following 15 years saw changes in his country of residence and many changes of lifestyle and fortune until he was dragged, kicking and screaming into the presence of Joachim Manfred Wagner.

I portray this so because, in my then profession, it was quite normal to receive about 20 to 30 unsolicited offers for "miracle healing devices" each month. Most of them are fraudulent junk and a few do have some effect for some people in certain circumstances. Neither I nor any of my colleagues had ever heard of any such device coming anywhere near performing as promised. It is, therefore, perhaps, understandable that my initial level of enthusiasm for purchasing another such device was, for all practical purposes, indistinguishable from zero.

A good long-term client, however, persisted in attempting to persuade me to get one to try. Finally I relented and, decided to risk placing an order.

Acting upon an impulse, Joachim decided to make a 155 mile detour to deliver the chip personally! That's when it all started.

Within two weeks I had ordered a further 6 chips and was beginning to get an idea of what I really had in my hand.

Tests upon myself and upon several patient volunteers showed quite astonishing results way beyond anything Joachim had ever dreamed of.

Thus was the partnership which gave birth to the Harmony Chip created.

Getting it Together

It was not all plains sailing from there. Much needed to be done: The scientific principles which lent the Harmony Chip it's amazing attributes needed to be precisely defined. How could it be that a device intended to make a car run better could help people become healthy and happy? Just what, exactly had we got in our hands?

Two years it took us to get to the starting point. Several revisions have taken place since then as we experience more and more of just what the Harmony Chip really can do. Even now, we get a surprise every week or so as someone does something that we'd never even dreamed of.

One of the early mistakes we made was in trying to communicate just how varied the abilities of the Harmony Chip are. We tried to say so much in as small a space as possible that we ended up saying almost nothing. We were, personally, so amazed with the Harmony Chip itself that we, temporarily, lost sight of the essential: The Harmony Chip is of interest to you only insofar that it gives you something of value to you. If you want to be pain free, then you're almost certainly not interested in increasing the performance of your car. If you are looking for ways to eliminate electro smog, then revitalising water is wasting your time. If you want to get rid of asthma then dramatically increasing you business skills is a non-starter.

You see, there is a fundamental difference between mankind's technology to date and the technology behind the Harmony Chip.

It is thus:

Mankind's technology to date has been function drive, that is, we decide that we want to achieve a particular effect and look for ways of making it happen. This gives us that which everyone knows; one tool, one function. For each thing that we are trying to achieve we make a separate tool or set of tools. The whole basis of this way of doing things is the belief that it is "right" for us to force the World to conform to our will. This has brought some benefits but the cost has been high and is rising (Katrina, for example).

Quantum technology works in a completely different way and asks completely different questions.

The first question is always, "What does this system want to do?" The basis of the science is the observed fact that any system, be it "natural" or "man made", contains, within itself, a blueprint for its optimal function. Where conditions allow, it is this optimal function which will be expressed. When, however, the expressed function is less than optimal, then the question is, "What is/are the disturbance(s) which are preventing proper function?"

Now, some systems, such as a car ignition system, are quite simple and one can work out "what's wrong" quite easily. Some, such as a human being, are so complex that the task, in this manner, is impossible. By the time that one has "worked out" what the problem is, the system has moved on.

One can never know what the problem is now!

Herein lies the main difficulty with any technique which seeks to resolve the everyday dis-eases, maladies and difficulties involved in being human. Before the chosen solution can be applied, the problem has changed. The entire human system is based upon constant movement, constant change. The first time that this does not happen is called death.

However, implicit in the fact that human beings have existed for at least 5 ½ million years and continue to exist and thrive today, is the very reasonable assumption that human systems are fully capable of maintaining themselves in a state of health and balance IF THEY ARE ALLOWED TO DO SO!!!! That is to say, so long as nothing forces its way into a human system which prevents optimal function, then nothing other than optimal function is possible!

What the Harmony Chip does is to so order all human systems at the point of creation, i.e. the quantum level, that their "immunity" to disruption and disturbance is massively increased.

The Harmony Chip doesn't cure any dis-ease, what it does is to prevent most diseases from happening.

When, however, a human being is in dis-ease then the ordering of the human biological and consciousness systems at their point of origin (please remember, this is a continuous, life-long, process) will tend to rapidly close out the disturbance causing the dis-ease and the human being, expressing finally it's true nature, will automatically remove the problem itself.

This is a total revolution in health care!!

Instead of as, to date, attempting to suppress symptoms (medicine) or helping the sufferer to identify, eliminate and avoid the causational disturbances (healing) the Harmony Chip so improves the natural functions that no entry for disturbing influences are present. Where disturbances have already found their way into a human system, they will be rapidly ejected by the optimally empowered human being.

The Harmony Chip has shown itself to be remarkably effective (almost 100%) in the rapid removal of many, medically speaking, "incurable diseases".

Amongst these are arteriosclerosis, arthritis, asthma, fibromyalgia, gout, hypertension, migraine, osteoporosis and rheumatism.

Telling the World

Have you heard of a little company called Herbalife?

Herbalife started off about 35 years ago as three guys operating out of a lock-up garage. Now it's a multi-billion Dollar multi-national concern.

We have two things in common with Herbalife:

- 1) we started out of a rented apartment with one third hand computer making each Harmony Chip by hand.
- 2) We will also be a multi billion Dollar enterprise over the next 20 years.

Why are we both so successful?

The World has been praying for the Harmony Chip for some years. The ever-growing list of "incurable illnesses", the growing quest to discover who mankind really is, the dawn of a new Golden Age.....

Little by little, investing the proceeds from each sale in further growth we've expanded step by step from one small town to a state to a country to a European region and, since June 2005 we're active World-wide so successfully that we are looking to establish a distribution centre in North America before the year's end.

A very large proportion of sales take place online and we have a growing list of websites catering for specific needs as well as our corporate website:

www.harmonyunited.com

The general sales site is at www.hu.chip.getinharmony.com

Business acumen

www.hu.pancreas.getinharmony.com

Arthritis etc.

www.hu.arthritis.getinharmony.com

and many more.

We are a growing industry, the pioneers of a revolution in science and technology and the most successful business of our type, World wide.

You may, if you wish, go directly to the order page now and within days start enjoying the benefits of this remarkable technology.

www.hu.price.getinharmony.com

Each Harmony Chip bears an unconditional, 90 day, no questions, money-back satisfaction guarantee and a 10 year function guarantee.

The only way you can lose is by not having one!

Spreading the Word

Word of mouth is what sells product. Of this there can be no doubt. No matter how much you spend on advertising, if people don't talk positively about you to their friends and family you're not going to get anywhere.

Why do you buy most of what you have bought?

Family habits accounts for around 80% to 85% of all your purchases. The other 15% to 20% is almost exclusively because your friends or family have recommended a product to you.

Most advertising is, therefore, aimed at getting that small group of adventurous people to try a new product so that they will talk about it. Have you ever heard of any of them being offered a reward for doing so?

That's what we do!

Anyone who has a Harmony Chip and is delighted with it (99,36% of all customers are**) can earn commissions by telling other people just how good the Harmony Chip is. The money we don't spend on advertising could easily go in your pocket, and why not; you're doing what works after all! You don't have to but if you want to, the opportunity is there.

You could even make a full time profession out of it. Creating, organising and managing the distribution network for the Harmony Chip and following products is going to make at least 30 millionaires in N. America alone. Would you like to be one of them?

Then go here now:

www.hu.associates.getinharmony.com

** To date merely 0.44% of all purchases have been returned under the guarantee. In each case the payment has been refunded without quibble.
