

Infectious Disease Pseudo-Science

All that this really shows is that the theory of infectious disease is total bunkum.
The theory says (a) but what actually happens is something else
Then the theory is amended to say (b) but something else happens again
So theory modification (c) is promulgated and again what happens is different.

We've now reached approximately theory modification (q) and still nature does something different.

Isn't it about time that we finally accept that the original postulate of infectious disease promulgated by those two fraudsters Pasteur and Koch for their own personal fame and enrichment has nothing to do with reality? Isn't it time to see that the pharmaceutical cartel who grabbed Pasteur's and Koch's lies and have been running with them ever since has nothing whatsoever to do with health but with the same personal gain?

Not only Epigenetics but also Quantum Biophysics show with total clarity that "infectious diseases" cannot and do not exist. It is not germs which spread disease but propaganda which spreads the belief in disease despite hard, scientific facts which prove the contrary.

Additionally, we find that those African countries which have thrown the Red Cross out and banned any further "medication" no longer have any new "Ebola" cases.

Finally, those few "Ebola" cases which have been brought to Europe and the USA for treatment have recovered not due to any "miracle medication" but by being given high quality nutrition which has restored their mineral balance and repaired the missing collagens just as I said it would in this first Ebola video:

<http://www.karmasingh.tv/web/en/world-events.html#ebola>

Blessed be

Karma Singh

14th November 2014

www.quantumpossibilities.co.uk

karmasingh@quantumpossibilities.co.uk

+44-203-286-6936

Book shop

www.karmabooks.co.uk